Minnesota Supplemental Aid

You may be able to get more money to help pay for things like rent, utilities, or other basic needs.

Most people who get Supplemental Security Income (SSI) can also get $81 or more a month from Minnesota Supplemental Aid (MSA), but you have to apply. You can apply for MSA by going online to www.applymn.org or by contacting your county human service agency.

Eligibility

To be eligible for Minnesota Supplemental Aid you must generally:

- Be over age 65, or under age 65 and blind or disabled
- Be receiving SSI, or be eligible for SSI, except your income is too high
- Have income of less than $771 a month and less than $2,000 in assets.

People who get SSI and MSA can usually also get health care coverage through Medical Assistance (MA) and money to help buy food from the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). You can also apply for MA and SNAP online at www.applymn.org or at your county human service agency.
